For Immediate Release

Good afternoon, I am reaching out to you for news coverage regarding an upcoming event at the Queen City Club. The Greater Cincinnati World Affairs Council (GCWAC) is hosting distinguished speaker, Arthur Cyr, to facilitate an engaging and intelligent discussion about past and current Nuclear Security Issues. The speaking event will be taking place on Wednesday, June 26, 2013 from 5pm – 8pm at the Queen City Club. There will be a short cocktail hour, dinner and Mr. Cry will speak a little before 7pm.

The GCWAC has conducted speaking events for the Cincinnati region that pertain to current international affairs. Please view photos from a past speaking event with Colonel Bill Smullen, the Director of National Security Studies of Syracuse University:

The GCWAC's mission is to be the leader in preparing the region and its citizens, individually and collectively, to thrive in today's global environment by promoting international understanding, engagement and cooperation. We actively lead in the development of internationally focused activities that include education, international visitors' exchange, and facilitation of global linkages.

Please let me know if you have the availability to offer coverage for our event and I will provide you with additional details.
